

Transform Your Urban Outdoor Play

Introduce Fire, Water, Earth and Air into your Outdoor Environment

Being in an urban environment does not mean that your outdoor play should be limited! We all know that 'the outdoor environment has unique characteristics and features' (EYFS 2007), but often we feel that because we are in an urban space this restricts what we can offer children. Crêchendo's Urban Outdoor Play course introduces ideas and resources for making the most of your outdoor play by embracing natural resources regardless of how limited your space may feel.

During the session we will:

- Discuss the importance of enhancing your outdoor play by using natural resources
- Provide practical guidance for using the four elements: fire, water, earth and air, in your setting such as how to build a small fire, transport water and develop a vegetable patch
- Consider inventive activities for your play space using what is around you – ideas for a windy day, playing with ice, using night lights in the dark

You will also learn how these activities support the EYFS 'open doors' policy.
